Dear Sir,-Instructions as to disposition of goods, please. Respectfully, J. F.GIBSON, Agent, Rickmond, Va., July 29th.

Mr. Nowland was the secretary of the Board of Commissioners of the Sinking-Fund. He is now dead. If he ever made any reply to Mr. Cribson the fact does not appear of record at the Capitol or at the express-office here.

The probability is that he made no answer. If not, in due course the puckage would have been sold by the express company in New York for the benefit of whom it might course. cenetit of whom it might concern.

Subsequent shipments of the bonds ere, which were refused by the Maone board, were kept in the vault of the express company-Mr. Gibson knowing what they were, and undertanding that they were things not to be thrown loosely upon the public. It is true that he advertised them for sale with other unclaimed freight, but he only did so to compel the Capitol offi-cers to come forward and pay the charges and take them away. This they did. Now, what I want to know is if such bends were signed by the above parties, or the signatures are forgeries. In other words, did those bends get out of the Treasury Department without the signatures of the Treasurer and Auditor and their names forged by an outside party?

Mr. Jacob Fier, Resten, Mass.:
Yours of the 2d instant, addressed to the Treasurer of Virginia, has been handed into this office for reply.
You don't give a complete description of the bends you refer to. You don't say whether they are coupon or registered; if registered, in what name registered, nor do you state the amount for which each is issued. But to determine whether the bonds are forgeries or not send them to some broker in this city, to be precented by him to this office for examination.

Very respectfully.

J. L. SHACKELFORD,
Acting Second Auditor.

Boston, April 8, 1887.

Hear Sir,—Will you kindly inform me at your convenience how much of the consolidated debt bond, issue of 1882, State of Virginia, was negotiated, what the original amount of the issue was, and by whom the bonds were signed?

By so doing you will confer a great favor on yours respectfully,

Mr. J. H. Walker, 225 Washington street:

Dear Sir.—Your letter of April 8th to the Treasurer of Virginia handed to me for answer. It is plain to my mind that the letter is from the same source with one I received on the 2th of April and answered through the chief clerk of this office. In this I ropeat what was there stated—that I must see the bonds before I answer the questions. I inclose the card of a broker, or rather firm of brokers, through whom you may get the explanation you want. Respectfully your obedient servant.

where the bonds are known to have been offered there were circumstances attending the offering, or there wa something in the appearance of the bonds or signatures thereto which excited suspicion.

The full complement of coupons being on bonds of date 1882 was of itself enough to arouse suspicion.

An interesting Story Comes from The Dispatch received the following readable special from Boston last night:

Boston, Mass., April 18.—It cannot be found that anybody in Boston has been very badly bitten by the Virginiabond swindle. About seventy-five of

They were offered for sale as curio sities at a dollar to one dollar and a half each.

A few purchasers did have a faint hope that the securities had at least a prospective value. They supposed they were buying repudiated bonds, and imagined that some possible change of State government control in the course of years might bring their redemption. They were supported in this belief by the good workmanship of the bonds themselves. THE DETECTIVES AT WORK, AND THEY SECURE SOME OF THE BONDS. The engraving, printing, and paper were of too high a quality to raise the suspicion that the bonds were vulgar forgeries. They were well executed in all particulars. None of the coupons had been torn off.

The bonds were issued July 1, 1882, ran for fifty years at 3 per cent. (being redeemable at any time after July 1 1900), and were issued to cover "the consolidated debt of the Commonwealth of Virginia." The two signatures, D. R. Reveley. Treasurer of the Commonwealth of Virginia, and J. A. Smith, Second Auditor, were rather awkwardly written, but were perfectly legible. The matter did not come to the attention of the police until to-day, when Chief-Inspector Hanscom detailed two de-tectives to gather up all the bonds they could find. They have secured possession of eight and a promise of thirty more to-morrow.

It is not believed that any dishones use of the bonds has yet been made here, but it is quite plain that confi-dence-men would be glad to get hold of the stuff, for it would furnish then with the best possible material for working successful swindles. It is for this reason that the bonds are regarded as dangerous.

THE BOSTON HOLDERS. Fourteen of the bonds were taken to the office of Blake Brothers & Co., the sell-known Devonshire-street brokers, a few days ago for investigation as to their possible value. The firm made inquiries in Richmond, and to-day learned that they were worthless. Jacob Fox. an insurance agent at 48

Congress street, has nine more.

The only information which the police have been able to obtain about the source of the bonds is to this effect. The bonds were printed by the Kendall Eank-Note Company, as it claims, in accordance with a contract with the proper Virginia authorities, and were forwarded to Richmond. They were not accepted, and there was a dispute about the ettlement for them. They remained in some one's custody for some years, and finally in some way got affoat. Somebody filled in the signatures, and the next known of them they turned up in Boston and New York.

The weekly meeting of the Committee on Grounds and Buildings was held last night in the City Engineer's office. After some routine business had been transacted a committee from the Knights of Labor, composed of Messrs, W. H. Mullen, Louis A. Tucker, and J. P. Devine, appeared before the committee in connection with City-Hall work.
On the 6th of April the Council committee received the following letter:

Mr. Devine followed Mr. Mullen. He wished to have such labor on the work as would redound to the credit of the party that instigated the commencement of the building. He desired the work to be conducted by organized labor, and "if it is not," he asserted, "we will put men into office who will. We represent the people. We have the people behind us. METHODIST MATTERS. The fresh spring weather was favorable to new ciches and invited to devotion. The congregations were generally full and the services hearty and interesting.

Three persons were received into membership at Broad Street church, three at Trinity, and twenty-three at Centenary.

At Laurel-Street church the pastor, Rev. W. P. Wright took occasion during the opening services to call attention to the remarkable sucat this church, and a Bible-reading will be held in the basement every afternoon from 4:30 to 520 o'clock.

At the Pins-Street church one person was received sunday morning on experience. In the afternoon a special meeting was held for the purpose of railed a sufficient sum to complete the house of worship. Encouraged by the generous help of the sister churches under the auspices of the Baptist Social Union the congregation responded nobity, and the sum of 52.185 in cash and subscriptions was secured. To this amount may be added $250 recently contributed for a special part of the work. This, together with the amount promised by the Baptist Social Union, will enable the church without increasing its present indebtedness $25.560 to complete the house, and the work will be commenced at once.

At the First Baptist church during the week a number were received for baptism. On Sunday morning two and and at night five were teptized. Communion was administered Sunday morning and the right hand of fellowship was given to thirteen. The total additions to this church during the month numbered thirty-dive. During the past week one person was haptized at Clay-Street church, and on Sunday inglet there was one profession of conversion.

At Grace-Street church on Sunday morning communion was administered and the right hand of fellowship was given to given to thirty-six and at night two were baptized.

At West-Mein-Street church during the week two were baptized. On Sunday morning the hand of fellowship was given to seven.

Mr. English was one the sureties on Mr. Allen's official bond, and he has accepted the whole obligation in order that the tender for the entire sum might be made by one party. The sureties on the appeal bond waived the right to use coupons.

Sir Edward Thornton and S. N. Braithwaite, Esq., representatives of the Council of Foreign Bondholders, appointed to confer with a legislative ommittee with reference to the settlement of the State debt, were to have sailed on the Etruria, of the Cunard Line, Sunday. A representative of the Dispatch called on Mr. Royall, the bondholders' counsel here, yesterday, but he was unable to state positively and he could truthfully say he knew of no such discrimination as was claimed. In every instance where men who were employed had been discharged he had found it to be because such men were whether they sailed.

MONUMENT TO GENERAL GRANT Fund to be Raised by the Grand Army of the Republic.

The Grand Army of the Republic, at its last annual encampment in San Francisco, directed the commander-inchief to appoint a committee of one in each State of the Union to arrange for a suitable memorial to the memory of General U. S. Grant. In accordance with this direction General Fairchild has issued a general order appointing a committee and designating Wednesday, April 27th, which is the sixty-fifth anniversary of General Grant's birthday, as the day upon which to hold memo-rial meetings throughout the entire country, under the auspices of the various Grand Army of the Republic posts, for the purpose of soliciting and re-ceiving contributions to the monument the sermon he confirmed a class of fund of the organization, it being understood that the monument will be
